ART FROM COLOMBIA

The wayuu are an indigenous people that inhabit the guajira, bordering venezuela; this community with a matriarchal structure has adapted to the inclement weather of a desert located in front of the caribbean sea.

The women dedicate themselves to weaving hammocks to sleep in, Wayuu bags (mochilas) for women, and colored blankets that highlight wayuu beauty, the Wayuu bags are made in crochet or ganchillo, and the elaboration of each piece can take approximately 20 days, the wayuu bags are the traditional handcrafted piece from colombia to the world.

The wayuu spin wild cotton, wick maguey, aipis and other natural fibers typical of the region, the twist ribbons to goat or beef rope to form threads, cords and strings.
